The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the car was the cold. It was a sharp contrast to the warm blanket I had been sitting under. I looked up at the sky, which was a pale, hazy blue. The air smelled like a mix of fresh earth and distant rain. I took a deep breath, feeling the cool air fill my lungs. The ground beneath my feet was soft and spongy, like a giant sponge. I walked a few steps, feeling the texture of the earth under my shoes. The sun was just starting to rise, casting a soft, golden glow over the landscape. The trees were bare, their branches reaching out like skeletal fingers. The overall feeling was one of quiet solitude and a sense of being in a new, unexplored world.
